

Aspen Heats Up

For 15 years Lee Lyon and Jacqueline Spiro have created one-of-a-kind glass doors, windows, walls, floors and furniture. The Aspen-based team modified a bronze-casting technique that lets them pour molten glass into hand-carved resin-bonded sand molds to produce decorative glass panels. Laura Hunt (above right, with Lyon and Spiro, right) appreciates their unique craft.

"It's creative and unlike anything I've ever seen before. They are truly artists."

International Island Style

Honolulu welcomes INTO, a new source for home furnishings, accessories and gifts. Books from Assouline and Taschen share space with fabric lines from the mainland and Europe, including Raoul Textiles, from Southern California, and London's Malabar fabrics. The Chinatown shop is filled with rugs from Turkey, silver from Argentina and Polish glassware (left), in addition to furniture lines such as Dallas's Allan Knight and Chicago's Michael Gary. The international selection caught the eye of The Wiseman Group's James Hunter.
